

Risk based GMP management

Proactive management in the company

How can your company and your employees benefit from Quality Risk Management? You will become familiar with the theory and the tools for risk based management in the life science industry.

During inspections, the Danish Medicines Agency focuses on management involvement and responsibility for establishing the company's quality system. The expectations by the inspectors are not always met, and the inspection results in deviations related to management role.

Participate at this course if you want to avoid such a deviation. We present management responsibilities for implementation and surveillance of the basic quality elements. At the course you will meet a manager from life science, who can tell you what risk based management is all about.

After the course you will know exactly how to work proactively with risk management, management and evaluation of the quality system, and no one will doubt that you as a manager can handle any GMP risk.

The course is a mix of theoretical presentations, cases and workshop.

The course language is English.

At the course you will meet:

Susan Bordrup, Ethics & Compliance officer at GSK

Malene Grøn, Senior Consultant at Pharmakon

Tina Brouer, Senior Consultant at Pharmakon
